SOLE MANUFACTURERS OF
W. C. ALLISON'S
PATENT JOINT
Oil Well Tubing.

This Superior Tubing is furnished with heavy sockets, and is cut with a vanishing screw thread, corresponding exactly with the thread in the socket, so that when screwed up it has a bearing the whole length of the joint; and the absence of a deep thread on the tube at the end of the socket obviates the liability to break at that point from the vibration caused by the action of the pump.

Each length and socket is stamped with our trade mark, and is carefully tested before shipment with a hydraulic pressure of 1,200 pounds to the square inch.

MANUFACTURERS OF
LAP-WELDED OIL WELL
Tubing & Casing.

We would call the particular attention of dealers and producers to this make of Tubing and Casing. One of the important features in the manufacture of our Tubing is, that the

Lap and the Weld

are made perfectly straight, smooth and uniform, thereby giving equal and great strength to the tubing throughout.

Each joint carefully inspected, reamed at end, and proved with the sockets on at a hydraulic pressure of 1,200 pounds to the square inch before shipment.

Each length stamped with our trade mark,

Titusville Morning Herald.

The Rochester Outrage and Riot.

From the Rochester Democrat, Jan. 3.

The story of Howard is that he returned from Syracuse on Saturday morning, at ten o'clock in the forenoon; that he went directly to his mother's house, on South Ford street, and from that place straight to Miller's house in Penfield. He says that on the way he crossed the canal at Ford street bridge and the river at Andrews street. He declares that he met several acquaintances on the way, who will remember that fact. Among others, he met one Mrs. Hollins, a colored woman. He denies positively that he was in the Eighth ward or on Francis street at all. The crime was committed about eleven o'clock. He professes to be able to account for his whereabouts at the time the crime was committed. On the other hand, there is the recognition of him by the outraged girl and of the child who was in her company. There is also the fact that his clothes bears evidence of guilt. Again, ex-Alderman Caufield, Thomas Smith and James Green, employed in Frost's nursery, saw a negro with a little white girl in that vicinity about noon on Saturday. Green and Smith saw Howard on New Year's Day and recognized him as the man they had noticed. A young man named George Weigle declares that he saw Howard on Saturday about eleven o'clock in Jesserer's grocery, on the corner of Francis and Hunter streets. He recognized him at once. Mr. Jesserer asserts that the prisoner is, to the best of his knowledge, the person who called at his grocery on Saturday. Theodore Newcome says that he saw Howard walking with a little girl on Francis street, beyond Cady street, on Saturday afternoon. He spoke to him, knows him personally and is positive that he is the man seen. In addition to all this, Mr. Wyckoff, for whose house the man who committed the crime was inquiring, had been told that Howard was to come to his house on Saturday, and was expecting him. It seems from a calm glance at the matter that the force of human testimony could be but little stronger against a criminal.

MOB—VIOLENCE.

All New Year's day the crime formed the subject for conversation, and men were gathered a various points in knots of two or three discussing it. The indignation was general and the vehemence intense. The excitement prevailed more especially through the Eighth ward and among the Germans. Talk of lynching the prisoners was heard in all directions. Men made no secret of their wishes, but were open in their declarations and willingness to take a hand in dealing out summary justice. False rumors in regard to the death of the outraged child fanned the sparks of discontent into something like fury. Yesterday morning the great crowd gathered about the police office waiting for the appearance of Howard for examination. Threats were made of lynching him, but we were rather inclined to regard them more as good safety-valves for the escape of popular anger than anything else, trusting that the natural good sense of our people and their confidence in the execution of the law would prevent their taking any illegal steps to wreak their vengeance. When the announcement was made, however, that Howard would not be brought down town for examination, the crowd, consisting of about four hundred persons, after a short consultation, set out for the jail. The intentions were unmistakable, and they reached that institution amid clamors to "give up the nigger." Jailor Beckwith and his assistant, Joseph Sparkley, were alone at the time and made haste to bar the outer doors, appearing at the windows with their revolvers. The lumber yard beside the jail furnished a stock of timber with which the door was assaulted. Seven deputies arrived in good time and the Sheriff was soon on hand. The crowd rushed after him on his entrance and he was backed against the door. Fortunately there was no firing.

THE SHERIFF HARANGUING THE CROWD

The sheriff took his place on the steps and harangued the crowd. He said he had been elected to enforce the law and would do it. Justice should be done the negro. To break the jail would release numbers of great rascals. The crowd called out in reply, "We'll only release the nigger; give us the nigger." Another rush was then made, after which the father of the little girl departed from the crowd and they seemed to some extent to cool down. The sheriff then called for silence and was listened to with attention while he addressed those assembled in the few words which his duty called for. He commanded them to disperse, saying that their assembling was illegal, and that he should protect the jail and the prisoner. The first man who attempted to break open the door would be shot. Some of the police force who had arrived at that time then cleared the enclosure of the crowd. This movement, which took place at about half-past nine, was not very dangerous. The crowd carried their assault no farther than the wooden storehouse, and jostled the sheriff considerably during his efforts to pacify them. The civil officers who were called upon to meet this emergency deserve the highest praise for the union of firmness and forbearance which they exhibited. They were successful, as they deserved to be, at little cost.

A crowd, largely composed of Germans, remained in the vicinity of the jail during the day, and climbed the lumber piles, indulging in hooting and shouting, and arguing over the events of the day.

ARRIVAL OF THE TROOPS.

At six o'clock the police and deputy sheriffs who had up to this time guarded the approaches to the jail were relieved by the militia. Sheriff Campbell had made a requisition on Brigadier General Clark for one or more companies of the Fifty-fourth regiment, and Company G, Captain Lauer, and Company D, Captain Schwartz, were detailed for that duty. In the course of the evening Companies E B and A were ordered out and reached the scene. A guard was stationed at the eastern extremity of Court street bridge, preventing any approach to the jail from that direction. At that point, however, the crowd was small and no demonstration was made.

On the west side of the river the militia occupied the bridge over the race, the only other avenue of approach. The bridge, the lumber yard and the lane leading to the jail were patrolled, and no one allowed to pass without the countersign. The sheriff had left the disposal of the militia to Colonel Westcott, who was in command during the night. Captain Lauer's company occupied the end of the bridge nearest the mob. For a long time nothing more serious occurred than shouting, and most of this was done by a parcel of boys who were nearest the bridge. Cries of "give us the nigger" and "Hang the villain" were freely made. About eight o'clock the crowd began to turn their attention more directly to the militia, and the troops were taunted with various epithets. The abuse came principally, as far as our reporter could discover, from the rabble of boys in front. Some of the crowd grew bolder, and finally several stones were thrown, and a number of men belonging to Companies G and D were struck.

THE MILITIA BECAME GREATLY EXCITED

and repeatedly asked their officers to be allowed to charge. Captain Lauer says he told his men to hold their position, but in no case to fire. In the meantime several brickbats were hurled by the crowd. One of the Sheriff's deputies was hit in the face and a number of soldiers received hurts of a trifling character. No serious injuries were received by any one with the exception of one of the guard on the bridge, who received a serious cut on the face, being struck by a stone. During this time, also, some one in the crowd fired five shots from a revolver in succession. Whether these shots were aimed at the troops or not is unknown. One of the patrolmen on the lane leading to the jail states that he heard the whistle of a bullet, which passed, as he judged, some ten feet above his head. Some three or more shots were fired afterwards, none of them, however, taking effect. At a quarter to nine o'clock our reporter passed through the crowd. Men, part of whom were merely spectators, were standing all along Exchange street from the swing bridge to a point above Court street. The crowd were standing in knots on Court street and along the walks, and a number were perched on lumber piles in the open space running from the corner of Exchange street to the bridge across the race. There were besides many gathered on this lot and at some distance from the troops. The whole number of persons in the vicinity was, as we have said, about one thousand. None of the crowd were within twenty feet of the troops, and those immediately in front were boys. As our reporter passed through these two of the soldiers leveled their muskets in quick succession and fired over the crowd. This had no effect on the crowd, who hooted and jeered at the troops with new vigor. At this time nothing was being thrown, nor were the rioters making anything but a wordy demonstration. We may remark that every soldier was provided with thirty rounds of ball cartridge, as is usual when called out in an emergency. But the crowd supposed the militia were furnished with blank cartridges, and, so far from being intimidated by shots, maintained the same threatening language, and kept up a desultory fire of stones and brickbats. The guard at the bridge were becoming extremely restless and asked their officers either to order a charge or direct a falling back from the position. It was then that Colonel Westcott, as we are informed, ordered Captain Lauer with his company to disperse the mob.

The men advanced at a steady pace, but finding the crowd did not yield, called for reinforcements, and Company D, Captain Schwartz, came on a run and formed on the right of the line. The mob slowly fell back, and at this instant a member of Company D discharged his musket.

THE FIRING.

The first shot was immediately followed by a scattering volley from both companies. A lieutenant of Company G states that the immediate cause of the firing was a wound received by private Faber of Company D, who was struck by a brick and disabled. The mob fell back rapidly after the firing. It was then discovered that several had fallen. They were picked up by persons in the crowd and carried across the street. As near as we can learn the soldiers did not fire directly ahead, but aimed toward the edges of the crowd, and those shot fell near the north and south corners of Exchange street. After the firing the companies who had made the charge, some forty men in all, fell back to the bridge.

THE KILLED AND WOUNDED.

As far as ascertained, seven persons in all were struck by the balls. Of these two died in a few minutes, two are dangerously, if not fatally wounded, and the rest more or less seriously. The first victim of this fatal volley whom our reporter found was John Elter, whose business as freight deliverer had made him known to the whole community. He fell at the south corner of Court and Exchange streets, and was carried across the street into Mrs. Johnson's saloon. The ball had entered the left breast just above the heart. As he was laid upon the floor the bullet fell from the wound, having penetrated right through the body. He lived but a few moments. The body was taken to his residence, 72 Franklin street, where his wife and children received it distracted with grief. Mr Elter had, just before he was shot, walked to the locality with two or three companions, simply as a spectator. He took no part as far as we can learn in the disturbance, having in fact had no time to do so, if even so disposed. The melancholy victim of this sad affair leaves a widow and seven children, ranging from one to fourteen years of age. His age was about forty-two years. Henry Merles was also shot down by the fatal fire of the militia. He was standing on Exchange street, in front of Warfield & Co.'s oil store at the moment, or, as some assert, was passing that store on his way home from work, and therefore not at all involved in the riot. He was taken into Hugh Devitt's saloon, corner of Spring and Court streets where Dr. Langworthy attended him. The bullet struck him in front, piercing the stomach. He also died in a few minutes after removal to the saloon. Deceased lived on Bartlett street, and the body was taken to his residence. He was a cabinet maker by trade and a young man twenty years of age.

In the same saloon was also taken John Hilrecht, shot through the calf of the right leg. He was attended by Dr. Langworthy. He is a laborer and about thirty-five years of age. He stated that he was walking along Exchange street when shot, and had nothing to do with the riot. He lives in No. 36 German street. There is nothing to prevent his recovery.

LOUIS HAMP AND ELIAS SWANTON.

Both these persons were wounded and immediately carried to Dr. Ely's office, on Fitzhugh street, and cared for by Drs W S Ely and W. W. Ely. Hamp was shot through the thigh, the bullet penetrating the limb. He was also struck in the left arm, near the elbow. His condition was extremely critical. The physicians declared that the arm would probably have to be amputated; and this, together with the wound in the thigh, will render his recovery doubtful. He was removed to the City Hospital. He is a young man, a laborer, and lives at No. 8 Bay street.

Elias Swanton was, as far as ascertained not seriously hurt. He had evidently been in the crowd when the troops charged, having received a bayonet wound in the back. He is a laborer, living at No. 150 Atkinson street, and a young man under twenty. John Nolan was another victim. He was shot down and immediately removed by his friends to St. Mary's Hospital. Doctors Carroll and Casey attended him. He was shot through the right lung and right arm. He is not expected to recover. He lives on Pinnacle avenue. Joseph Koble is the last of the victims as far as ascertained. The ball entered anterior to the right axilla (armpit) passing deep in and backward. The wound is severe but not necessarily fatal. The injured man was attended by Dr Hovey, to whose office he was brought. The ball was not extracted. He is twenty years of age and resides at No. 7 Kirk street, in the Fourteenth ward.

The greater part of the crowd now gathered around the places into which some of the dead and wounded had been carried, and bitter threats were made against the military. Adjutant Regy happening to pass along the street soon after, his uniform was noticed and the infuriated crowd made a rush for him. He was fain to seek shelter in the Kremlin Saloon, under the Clinton House. Some fifty or more of his pursuers waited before the hotel for a long time in the hope that he would come out. It is needless to say that he left the building by another way.

All the police were called together by order of the Commissioners, and a detachment under command of Captain Sullivan was sent to the scene.

MORE FIRING.

At half-past twelve o'clock some shots were again fired by the soldiers. About fifty men were standing at the corner of Court and Exchange streets, and at them the shots seem to have been directed. The crowd were not making any demonstrations or annoying the soldiers in any shape.

WERE SOME OF THE MILITIA DRUNK?

We have set out to give as near as may be a truthful account of the whole proceeding, and therefore are compelled to state that the grave charge of drunkenness is made against some of the soldiers who were engaged in the firing last night. The charge comes from a perfectly trustworthy source. It is that a number of the privates, and even one of the officers were considerably the worse for liquor.

THE FIRING NOT ORDERED.

Both Captain Lauer and Schwartz deny giving the order to fire. They state that they cautioned the men against it. Captain Lauer furthermore states that when the firing began he stopped it as soon as possible, threw up three muskets with his sword, and took another away from one of his command.

Squandering a Fortune.

From the New York Sun.

Henry Buttle, who was arrested on Thursday night for passing a forged check for $25 on Robert Kessler, a butcher, at 268 Seventh avenue, was fully committed Saturday by Justice Cox. The career of Buttle, who is twenty-three years of age, is almost an unparalleled one.

When but ten years old, his father, a prominent banker and wealthy, died, leaving Henry, who was his only child, heir to his estate valued at $250,000. His father appointed a brother executor of the estate. Henry came in possessions of his property when of age, and shortly after made the acquaintance of a daughter of Colonel Clinton, of Mississippi, to whom, after a short acquaintance, he married. He engaged an elegant suit of rooms at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, for himself and bride, securing the services of a French maid for his wife. The first five months of his marriage he purchased from Bishop & Rein, jewelers under the Fifth Avenue Hotel, $22,000 worth of diamonds, which he presented to his wife. He also purchased fast horses and fine equipages, and with his beautiful wife at his side, with his liveried coachman and outriders, no turnout on the avenue excelled that of young Buttle.

It is estimated that the first year of his married life he expended on himself and his wife not less than $65,000. On the memorable Black Friday he lost in gold speculations $75,000. Anxious to make good his losses, he continued his speculations in gold stocks and bonds until the last vestige of his inheritance had disappeared. He then disposed of his horses and carriages.

They were followed by the diamonds which he had purchased for his wife. These he sold to Bishop & Rein, from whom he purchased them, for about one-fourth the price which he had paid. The proceeds of these sales were lost in stock speculations within three days. These reverses he kept from his wife until the unfortunate ventures and suppression from his wife had nearly driven him mad. He made two attempts to commit suicide, and became perfectly reckless. About four months ago he forged a check for a large amount, signing the name of his uncle, and passing the check on Vernon Brothers & Co., 65 and 67 Duane street.

The matter was amicably arranged by the intercession of the uncle, and Buttle escaped prosecution. He next, with his wife, went to board at the Gilsey House, and becoming largely indebted to Breslin & Gardner, the proprietors, for board, he paid them with a forged check. Before the last named forgery was discovered he was arrested for the forgery on Kessler. His wife, who up to last night had remained in happy ignorance of her husband's conduct, became frantic with grief when the news was communicated to her. The friends of the family are using every possible endeavor to settle Buttle's difficulties and hush the matter up. His wife's wardrobe, which was worth from $3,000 to $4,000, it was expected would be found in her trunks. The trunks were nearly empty, and in her husband's pockets were found a large number of pawn tickets.

Haunted Houses.

THE DESERTED TENEMENTS OF THE CITY OF LONDON.

From the London Daily News.

A great deal of curiosity has been excited for a long period in reference to a number of large houses in Stamford street (Blackfriars), Snow Hill, Nowington and other parts of London, allowed to remain empty and suffered to get into a ruinous state, the rental value of the property being many thousands per annum. One house in Stamford street, at the corner of Hatfield street, which was formerly let for £100 per annum, has been empty more than forty years. The various premises were popularly known as "haunted houses," and crowds have collected occasionally round them, particularly the houses in Stamford street, upon the report that a "ghost" had been seen walking about some of the rooms. Their real history appears to be this: The property originally belonged to a solicitor named Reed, a man possessed of a large fortune, and he, through a mere whim, determined not to let any portion of this property. He died some five-and-twenty years ago, leaving, it is said, strict injunctions to his widow to carry out the same course. His directions were obeyed, and at the death of the widow the same injunctions were given to the daughter, until her death, which took place on December 11, rather suddenly. By this event the condition of affairs in relation to the property will, in all probability, now be changed, and the estate put to some useful purpose. The habits of the deceased lady were most penurious. She resided in one of the houses in Stamford street, her only establishment consisting of one old woman; and the residence of the "old miser," as she was generally termed, could easily be recognized by its dirty and dilapidated appearance. Periodically the two old women would make a visit to the other houses in the street, the time chosen being generally evening. With lantern in hand, they would go through the different rooms of the large ruinous buildings, and these visits gave rise, no doubt, to the "ghost" rumors that were rife, and were the cause of the crowds assembling to see the light gleaming from the windows. Almost immediately after the death became known it appears that parties claiming to be the heirs-at-law of the deceased took possession of the house where she resided, and among the strange rumors that are afloat in reference to the subject is one that a sum of money amounting to nearly £20,000 was found hoarded in different parts of the house, and concealed in all manner of out-of-the way places. At first it was rumored that the deceased had died without making a will, but it has since been stated that a testamentary document has been discovered. It will perhaps be recollected that a few years ago some persons took forcible possession of one of the houses in Stamford street, and set up some claim to the property; but it was shown that they had no legal title, and they were forcibly ejected by order of a Magistrate. Since then the whole of the property has remained in the same condition as before.

TO BE the friend of Grant and the supporter of his administration is said to make the United States Senator whose term expires the object of fierce attack and conspiracies, but for all that they seem to be on the winning side, and the Republican State legislatures adhere gallantly to their fortunes Senator Sherman has just gone triumphantly through the Republican Legislative caucus in Ohio The sentiment seemed to be pretty much all one way, so that before the vote was announced all but four of the friends of other candidates changed to Sherman This was in the Senate, where he had seventy votes Of course the result of the caucus is conceded to attain Mr Sherman's election on Tuesday next

THE Reform Legislature in New York State, if it carries out the programme laid down by its new Speaker Mr Smith—if it continues as it has begun, will deserve the title it has earned Mr Smith belongs to the Conkling side of the Republican House, and was elected by the friends of Grant's administration and he seems as thoroughly imbued with the principles of civil service reform and as determined, on his part, to set an example of economy as the most zealous advocate of reform could ask The President need not be ashamed of such friends they will bring no discredit on himself, but strengthen his administration in the public confidence The Albany correspondent of the New York Times thus refers to the first words and acts of the new Speaker Mr Smith

He (Mr Smith) announced his intention to commence the work of reform in the Assembly itself and to reduce the number of officials of all kinds connected with it to the limit fixed by law The custom in past years has been to increase the number of clerks, pages, doorkeepers, messengers, &c, by resolution—a practice which Mr Smith regards as unauthorized and which he will not tolerate this session In accordance with the views expressed in his speech, he declared out of order a resolution that the Postmaster of the last Assembly be directed to continue until the election of a new, saying that the law did not provide for any postmaster at all Mr Smith is opposed to any officials that may be necessary, but he insists that they shall be appointed in a legal manner or not at all

SPAIN seems to be ruffling her feathers for a fight with us Grant's administration has been censured in some quarters for not forcibly interfering to stop the barbarous atrocities of the Spanish authorities in Cuba, but he has contented himself with protecting American citizens and interests If Spain is wise she will not provoke us to war, which will certainly wrest Cuba from her grasp, and plant that gem of the seas in the galaxy of American states Washington dispatches say that from sources reliable it is ascertained that the administration has not, as has been stated, changed its policy on the Cuba question, but continues according to the principles heretofore declared, namely That while it will observe strict neutrality in regard to difficulties now existing in the Island of Cuba it could not consent that our merchant vessels shall be molested in lawful pursuits, or overhauled and examined unless they are found committing some violation of Spanish authority In accordance with this policy our government has protested against the act of the Spanish naval officer in boarding and searching the Florida on the high seas and has requested the Spanish government first to apologize second, to disavow the act of the officer third, to punish him and fourth, to pay damages That the Spanish government will meet the requirements is not doubted

NEW YORK State plays too important a part in the political drama to be lost sight of in the march of events Tweed has not had the hardihood to take his seat in the Senate Tom Fields is on hand in the Assembly, though his seat is to be contested Among the bills already introduced or soon to be offered is one to repeal the infamous Erie Classification Act, and its success is morally certain also the bills providing for the removal from office of the Mayor, Corporation Counsel and Commissioner of Public Works of the city of New York Memorials have also been presented to the Assembly from contestants for the seat of Tom Fields, Alex Frear, and James Dunphy, Tammany members from New York setting forth that these men were elected by fraud, and asking for an investigation They were referred to the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, hereafter to be appointed

The Approaching Crisis in France.

Editors Morning Herald

For some months past, and particularly since the restoration of peace in Europe, local and neighboring events have so fully engrossed our attention as to render us somewhat neglectful of the commercial and political horizon encircling those European nations, which a common interest, and sympathy as well as a common brotherhood, should induce us intently to regard

1st Because though we are both politically and geographically divided we are nevertheless members of the same family and hence, the disorganization of any one or more members affects the entire body

2d Because, the want of due familiarity with the causes of such disorganization, renders us (in the late Franco Prussian war) subject to the innumerable panics, "surprises," [illegible] and intrigues necessarily attendant upon continental politics

These general premises are especially applicable to all national [illegible] in which America is interested, but more particularly to those of France whose peculiar political system added to her ideal and volatile temperament [illegible] her the most [illegible] of [illegible] demagogues, and [illegible] from the era of Charlemagne to that of Napoleon III

To us, of a more rigid [illegible] graduates of a more equilibrious system [illegible] education (which have made us with a [illegible] government) it may be easy to [illegible] the fiery ordeal through which France is even now emerging should constitute a sufficient lesson for their future guidance

Just "Thus" who are now applying the lessons inculcated by [illegible] experience in one of the most sanguinary and gigantic struggles the earth ever witnessed, such an ordeal would undoubtedly have produced this result But then, gentlemen, America is not France [illegible] politically, socially, ecclesiastically nor geographically, the success attendant upon the suppression of our rebellion was in a great measure the result of our national isolation, which prevented the intermeddling of jealous neighbors, and finally, to the fact that we had but one political party to contend with, while France has at least twelve, of nearly equal prestige, each of whom are as fully determined on wielding the sceptre as the most rabid advocate of the "passive policy" is to occupy the "white house" Add to this, the fact, that she is the centre of a more technical circle of nations, governed by the emissaries of Rome, whose perpetuation in power depends upon the perpetuation of monarchy, and we at once perceive the difficulty of prescribing a remedy adapted to her complicated ailments, from this side of the Atlantic

And thus, we might interminably pursue cause and effect in demonstration of the principles and advantages promotive of the interests of the one, and the obstacles clogging the progress of the other but satisfied that the class of mind to which the subject addresses itself, will readily penetrate the labyrinth, we desist, merely adding that these thoughts are suggested to our mind by the present precarious and threatening attitude of events in France, as portrayed by the latest and most reliable French journals, and which, without the interposition of wiser measures than those now prevailing, must, in the nature of things, produce disastrous effects, at no distant period

Submitting the above remarks as an introduction, we propose with your approval to discuss the basis of our opinion in a future paper Very truly yours

ORGANIZATION OF THE SENATE—MR J S RUTAN ELECTED SPEAKER—BUCKALEW VOTES WITH THE REPUBLICANS

SENATE

HARRISBURG Jan 4

The clerk called the Senate to order at eleven o'clock, and after Prayer The second ballot for Speaker resulted in 16 to 16—a tie once

Mr Buckalew (Democrat) moved to take a recess of twenty minutes Agreed to It was understood that the object of this recess was to afford further time for consideration on the part of the Democrats The conference committees of the two parties were in session to a late hour last evening, but arrived at no conclusion The Democrats held a caucus of their own this morning at which it was proposed to concede the organization to the Republicans This met with temporary favor but was reconsidered at a second caucus held a few minutes before the Senate met During the recess a third caucus was held

On reassembling Mr Buckalew, Democrat, said The time has arrived when the necessity of the case demands the election of a Speaker I am authorized by my Democratic colleagues to vote in such a manner as to produce the result Nothing could be gained by prolonging this amicable controversy My colleagues have thought proper to exhibit their magnanimity by bringing it to a close I also [illegible] my proposition only extends to the single election of a Speaker

The next ballot, the eighth, resulted as follows James S Rutan Republican, 17 votes Albert G Brodhead, Democrat 15 votes Mr Buckalew Democrat, voted for Mr Rutan Mr Rutan was declared elected and sworn

On assuming the duties of the chair Mr Rutan said

SENATORS—I thank you for your kindness and partiality in electing me to preside over your deliberations The oath I am about to take requires me to discharge my duty with fidelity—that is honestly fairly and impartially and it shall be my constant effort to observe this obligation in its broadest sense I must rely very much upon your kindness and assistance, and these I invoke Experience teaches that a strict enforcement of the rules adopted for the government of the Senate is the wisest policy for Speaker and Senators, and the best promoter of the public interest I shall endeavor, therefore, to enforce all our rules strictly but impartially, and any that seem harsh or despotic must be voted down by the Senate I have been elected under peculiar circumstances and realize that above all my predecessors in this chair I owe my selection at this time to the good will of all

We are reminded by this fact that one Senator the oldest in continuous service, and one of the ablest most useful and best loved members of this body, has passed away since our last adjournment To mention the name of George Connell in this Senate is to excite respect for the many virtues which he possessed as a man and as a public servant We are reminded of his ability his energy, his generous forgiving spirit, and his constant kindness and with unfeigned sadness and sorrow all who knew him, all who served with him here must turn to his vacant seat It is a coincidence in the history of this body that this is the second consecutive session in which we have had to mourn, when we met, the loss of one of our associates, and that in each case the loss changed for a time the political complexion of the Senate We learn from this the great uncertainty of political fortune as well as of life and are reminded that we should strive more to serve the people, the whole people and less to promote partisan ascendancy

Important duties are to be performed during the session now opening, the first of which is to provide for the election of delegates to the convention to amend the State Constitution, in obedience to the overwhelming voice of the people expressed at the ballot box Many reforms are demanded, such as prohibiting local legislation, improvement of our judiciary system and regulating representation These can only be secured by an amended Constitution There should be no delay in passing a bill calling this convention The division of the State into Congressional districts is another important question to be disposed of Our duty to apportion the State is imperative, and in performing it I trust all will be actuated by a spirit of fairness and a determination to do what is just and right, rather than by a desire to attain party interests The policy controlling such legislation should be to secure a fair representation of the people in Congress Unnatural combinations simply for political purposes should not be tolerated, and no party making them will be permanently benefitted The masses of the people of all parties are honest, and will find out unfairness and wrong, even for political purposes We should all be actuated with a desire to secure a prompt dispatch of the necessary legislation, and of that only which is necessary and an early adjournment

In view of the approaching constitutional convention and our quadrennial political struggle, let us commence the work of reform and make this session a model one for brevity, economy and wise legislation We are admonished that the people mean the reform of all abuses, and let us earnestly begin the work

All the new Senators were then sworn Chief Clerk Ziegler Democrat, tendered his resignation stating as he did so that he had no disposition to prolong the contest or to throw obstacles in the way of the full and complete organization of the Senate He thanked the Senators for their uniform kindness Ballots were then commenced for Chief Clerk, the Democrats voting for Ziegler and the Republicans for George W Hammersly Four ballots were had, resulting in 16 to 16

After the fourth ballot, Mr Billingfelt Republican, offered a resolution requesting the present Chief Clerk Mr Ziegler to act until his successor was elected Mr Billingfelt said it was folly to continue the balloting The adoption of this resolution would at least give the Senate a month of work and would carry out the Republican doctrine that the organization of the Senate was continuous The Senate had not yet accepted Ziegler's resignation

After discussion a motion to adjourn [illegible] an amendment was made by Mr Graham Republican to substitute the name of Hammersly instead of Ziegler The resolution was finally withdrawn by Mr Billingfelt [illegible] without determining the question [illegible] adjourned until to-morrow morning

At eleven o'clock this evening no means of determining the question of the Clerkship had been found nor is there any prospect, from appearances of anything being done to-morrow except a meeting, and an immediate adjournment until next Tuesday

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Mr Lanner announced the death of James W Dickerson, of Bedford, and delivered an obituary address He presented resolutions of condolence, which were passed

Mr Guss offered the following

At Albany, this morning, the counsel for Tweed not being ready, the argument on the motion appealing the order denying the reduction of Tweed's bail, and vacating the order of arrest, was postponed until Friday next The argument on Connolly's case is being proceeded with

[illegible] LINDSAY

was again before the Congressional Committee this morning, and denied the testimony of Wm Haw that Haw had never [illegible] knew of officials going up town to obtain perquisites for passing goods Lindsay admitted a copy of the agreement between Col Leet and Bixby by which the former was to have $56 000 or have it [illegible] general order business to Bixby's store Leet [illegible] threatened to have Grinnell removed if not given more money Lindsay here stated he was reluctant to make further disclosures, as he was challenged last night at hotel, but could not say who challenged, or whether the challengers were officials Lindsay further testified that he wished not to be understood as stating that General Porter and Babcock were interested in the general order business with Leet They were in the same army mess in Washington and Leet complained that his share of the profits were not sufficient to pay his share of the expenses of the mess

Lindsay in reply to a question said [illegible] pay in the army was $100 and he used to say that it was not enough along with his $6000 from the general order business [illegible] witness were generally disliked at the White House Witness stated he [illegible] paid him $2 000 or $5 000 for his services from his own pocket Being further examined by Senator Cassidy, he stated, Mr Grinnell and himself frequently spoke together about the system of leading men of the community using their influence to get men appointed to the Custom house and then making appointees pay them for such influence He had no reason to doubt that such a practice exists He heard there was a collusion between the general order interest and the shipping interest to hurry goods into the general order stores, so as to subject them to charges Lindsay said Stocking called here from Washington with letters from Senator Morton Spencer and others, to Collector Grinnell who in consequence gave the [illegible] Stocking the position of [illegible] at a salary of $2 000

Examined by Senator Pratt—Lindsay said he believed the practice existed of warehouse men paying government inspectors who drew regular salaries from the government had the information from Grinnell, Leet, Stocking, and others He did not know why these payments were made, unless it was that the inspectors might hurry goods to the stores Lindsay did not think it wrong for [illegible] and Collector Grinnell to draw up Leet's appointment [illegible] Lindsay's name instead of Leet and forwarding the profits to Leet [illegible] answer to a query which [illegible] whoever commits a fraud or he who helps the fraud, and then covers it up Lindsay said he saw no fraud in such proceedings though the public might have the right to [illegible] He admitted the object of [illegible] and Grinnell to cover matters up [illegible] Grinnell [illegible] would do anything [illegible]

[illegible] knew of no irregularity Mr Hamilton, importer, testified [illegible] of his bills and demanded [illegible] to be paid but never had it

C G Eastman, member of the Assembly, deposed that he tendered Greeley that he [illegible] Custom House officials to vote for Smith for [illegible] (Eastman) had heard [illegible] he must vote the Custom House magnates directed [illegible]

C H Lewis, managing clerk of the Leviathan Line testified that he was aware of no partiality by Custom House officials The surveyor has suspended a number of inspectors of luggage, who were in the habit of exacting and receiving tribute for expediting luggage to the port, and a gentleman told him he paid that 30 000 tons luggage came on a Cunard steamer recently, and nearly every passenger had to pay his luggage passed He was informed of an inspector receiving fifty dollars from a gentleman who had brought furniture over The witness recollects in 1867 when he brought some invalid [illegible] to the custom house the officials were shameless in working bribes An inspector passed his luggage through for him without examination and then demanded a present Not a passenger comes to this port who can't relate similar cases of a number of instances in which the government has been defrauded W T S Kennedy told him that having imported a railroad iron, a broker requested him to allow him to put in a claim for damages and they could divide the money Kennedy said the goods were in [illegible] The broker replied [illegible] it is the regular course, but Kennedy [illegible] declined In December, 1867 the witness [illegible] sister came home from Europe, and her trunk was passed without inspection Next day an inspector called for [illegible] and got it District Attorney Davis will supply the committee with plenty of evidence of fraud in the Appraiser's office Mr Lewis [illegible] conversation with Surveyor Bunwell three weeks ago, and told him that he knew of fraud in [illegible] inspectors, and Bunwell replied he had investigated numerous complaints against that department, and never found one [illegible] with corruption Lewis states that G L Lord refused to pay an exorbitant assessment and was immediately removed from the internal revenue collectorship of the Third District, New York He gave considerable hearsay evidence, [illegible] his opinion on the tenure of office, and did not think the [illegible] permanent [illegible]

On motion of Senator Conkling, the secretary was instructed to procure suitable rooms for the Committee

SHERIFF'S SALE

The [illegible] building with considerable material of the Printing Company was sold at sheriff's sale for $30 000 to satisfy a judgment of the [illegible] Bank for $100 000 While the sale [illegible] was in progress, the proceedings were stopped by an injunction of Judge [illegible] of a party number [illegible] A large crowd was present

THE FAMINE IN PERSIA

The Times of India, just received, says of the Persian famine that the starving people [illegible] to take care of themselves, and such as can leave the country do so [illegible] an unexpected quarter has reached them [illegible] disease has appeared in districts to complete what famine had begun Letters from Yezd and Bund Abbas intimate that the cholera is committing ravages among the population It is stated that the children of some five hundred cholera patients who had been quarantined were impounded to defray expense of transit and detained until a Parsee gentleman paid the funds required

ALABAMA ARBITRATION

Foreign papers say that the Alabama arbitration commission was organized on December 18th by the election of Count Sclopes as president, and Prof Farrat secretary

A St Petersburg letter says that the unfriendly feeling toward Germany has quieted down in Russia Sympathy for France, too, has greatly died out This is said to be partly due to the feebleness of Thiers' government, and partly to the conduct of the French themselves The execution of Rossel created an unpleasant impression in Russia

KU KLUX INDICTED

A dispatch from Graham, Alamance county, N C, states the grand jury has found a number of indictments against parties who hung the mulatto outlaw in February Andrew and eighteen others have fled The indictments are found as it became known that one Faucett had turned state's evidence

THROUGH JEALOUSY

The reported tragedy at Spattshood, New York, turns out to be a farce Mrs Chauncey, widow of Commodore Chauncey, it appears, dressed herself in male attire to watch a man named Snowhill, an admirer, who discovered her disguise and attempted to tear her clothes off. She fired a revolver at him and his companion to scare them from stripping her, and fled No one hurt Mrs Chauncey is slightly injured and under nominal arrest for murderous assault

THE SNOW AND DETENTION OF TRAINS

CHEYENNE WY T, Jan 5

Four passenger trains, carrying about 800 passengers, arrived here this A M from Ogden, which place they left December 21st 22d, 23d, and 28th respectively They have been between here and Laramie, fifty six miles, since Monday morning There is little trouble on the road west of Medicine Bow, but trains were detained between Ogden and that point a week from no other apparent cause than lack of proper understanding and information on the part of the companies officers The greater part of that time was spent on side tracks, where it was almost impossible to obtain meals, and passengers suffered considerable inconvenience, subsisting on crackers and dried meats Between Laramie and Cheyenne the road was impassable except with the help of a large force of men, working night and day The snow is deep and constantly drifting On one part, near Sherman, the train made only four miles in twenty-four hours If the weather should continue as favorable as it is now, the road can be kept clear, but winds or more snow will again block it up at the same place where the recent trouble has been experienced The time from San Francisco of the first passenger train here this morning is seventeen days

From Chicago

THE DUKE'S LIBERALITY

CHICAGO, Jan 5

The Grand Duke and party left this city for for St Louis this morning Previous to leaving His Imperial Highness handed Mayor Medill $5 000 for the benefit of the poor He also passed over to the Mayor some twenty or forty letters received by him while here, all from females, asking for assistance in some shape One young lady from Western New York begged through sixteen closely written pages for a sum to enable her to marry a widower whom she loved dearly They both were so poor that they could not do without the money The Duke instructed the Mayor if he found in the letters any appeal he deemed worthy to honor it in a moderate way

INDICTMENT OF ALDERMEN

GREAT inducements are now offered purchasers of dry goods at R T Hazard's

The Poor-Rich Man—Jim McCray

Great are the trials of poverty, the being snubbed by snobs, the dodging of duns, the necessity of throwing ones' self on the tender mercies of washer women, of having the sheriff put his grip on your property, and the lawyers devour your substance, but the rich have troubles of their own One is the smallness of the aperture through which, according to Scripture, they must enter the Kingdom of Heaven, and the other is that the rich man is not allowed to enjoy his wealth in quiet, but is persecuted with all sorts of appeals for aid and assistance

Let a man "strike oil," and he will soon find how it is himself Mr J S McCray, of Petroleum Centre, who is one of the luckiest of operators, was published not long since as having an income of $7,000 a day, and as being a man full of the "milk of human kindness," all of which is true enough, but he has paid dearly for such notoriety, in applications for loans and charity from all parts of the country A wants his subscription for a Church, B for a Public Library, C for a Hospital There are calls on his patriotism, calls on his humanity, calls for the minister, for the widow and the orphan, and calls to run the campaign But the most importunate calls are from people that McCray never heard of Two sweet young girls lay their doleful complaints before him that their parents will not furnish them money to travel with, and that they desire to visit the sunny South for recreation, and that the modest sum of $2,000 will meet all their expenses, and that they will feel very much obliged, and that they know he will not feel such a [illegible] [illegible] being less than half a day's income A lady from Philadelphia writes to the "Oil Prince" that she will be very thankful for the gift of a few thousand dollars to enable her to marry the man of her choice, who like her is unfortunately in reduced circumstances from no fault of their own of course and the only [illegible] is money [illegible] to make them both happy and forever [illegible] [illegible] her address is No —— street which he may forward the draft for the amount

There are many cases more of the same sort scarcely a mail arrives but brings him begging letters from strangers, for loans from five dollars and upwards, or for gifts outright—just to start in business, or to save from bankruptcy, or to save from a suicide's fate The biggest well would of course soon be run dry with such pumping as this We are not advised how many hearts McCray has broken, or hopes [illegible] or prospects blighted, or [illegible] how many crimes he [illegible] for not drawing his check and emptying his pockets on all these creditors

For a long time our unfortunate friend was inclined to look upon himself as the most [illegible] and selfish villain living for [illegible] such piteous cries for help He has [illegible] to take up a paper lest he should find himself [illegible] [illegible] these however, who have indited threatening letters to Mr McCray vowing to blow up his house, poison his water wells, flood his oil wells, [illegible], run him for Congress, and "smash" him up [illegible] and pecuniarily unless he comes down with "something handsome" we would say that McCray knows their purposes full well that he never travels [illegible] unarmed, that he stands six feet in his stockings, and has resolved to "die game" But there is no [illegible] for the rich man this side the grave, and beyond the chances [illegible] against him Our bowels move with compassion for the poor millionaire, and in dwelling on the miseries of such persecution we congratulate our selves that we never "struck oil," and are nobody but a poor printer

THE CASH UP WELLS—The developments of the last two days at Cash Up have been of great importance, as, by them the territory has been decided beyond any question to be among the very best that have been discovered since the early days of Pithole The McLaughlin well, it seems had become fouled with mud and thick oil, but on being lightly torpedoed on Thursday, it commenced [illegible] For the twenty-four hours ending at four o'clock yesterday afternoon, the yield had been between 700 and 800 barrels, and at the hour named the flow was at the rate of 700 barrels daily The flow of gas from this well is stronger than at any previous time, and the opinion of the best informed operators is that the flow will continue about as at present for some time

The Bronson well yesterday afternoon was producing 150 barrels with a fair prospect for a further increase

The Emery or "Octave" well flowed from Thursday morning until nine o'clock the same night at the rate of 100 barrels, but at that hour the flow stopped Yesterday the tubing was drawn when two [illegible] joints were found [illegible] accounts for the spasmodic manner in which this well has produced [illegible] past week No doubt is entertained by operators who have watched it closely but [illegible] when the working apparatus is put in good order it will flow or produce by pumping from 100 to 200 barrels daily

[illegible] four wells struck at Cash Up have been in the hands of [illegible] operators as there are in the [illegible], but owing to the extreme cold weather, on several [illegible] accidents have occurred, we [illegible] upon [illegible] the production of the large well fall off, and the belief that the territory would, after all, produce in moderate quantities only was pretty generally entertained

Now, however, the Cash Up district is expected to [illegible] at least as much importance as the Hickory district has been Further developments may be expected during the next ten days, as four or five wells in good locations will be completed

PRESENTATION TO R H BOUGHTON Mr R H Boughton, the popular freight agent of the O C & A R R company, for all points between Titusville and Petroleum Centre, was last evening subjected to an agreeable surprise at his residence The occasion was his birthday, and the railroad employes on this division of the road had united in the purchase of a massive gold watch chain, obtained at [illegible] & Co's The boys proceeded together to Mr Boughton's residence about [illegible] o'clock, where they found him reclining in his easy chair, enjoying his fragrant meerschaum and a social family chat The intrusion was happily explained by one of the company in a brief presentation address, which Mr Boughton acknowledged in feeling and appropriate terms Mr Boughton is one of the oldest employes of of the Oil Creek road, having entered its service in 1863 He has always enjoyed the confidence and attachment of his fellow employes, and this is the second or third instance in which it has been thus manifested

DO NOT forget that R T Hazard's closing out sale is still progressing

Commonwealth vs William H Davis—For larceny defendant plead guilty, and was sentenced one dollar, costs of suit, and two years and ten months at labor in the penitentiary

Commonwealth vs Jerome Bucklin—For selling liquor on Sunday On trial

EXPLOSION OF RHIGOLENE—Last Saturday afternoon a man named Stewart was carrying twelve bottles of rhigolene into the basement of Stearns' wholesale drug store, Detroit, and let the bottles fall The vapor almost immediately reached the fire under the boiler, and the whole basement instantly became one sheet of flame Four of the employes were burned to death, and the rest made a narrow escape Rhigolene is one of the most volatile portions of petroleum, and vaporizes with rapidity upon being exposed to the atmosphere It is used for freezing the flesh in surgical operations, and also by dentists for the painless extraction of teeth When mixed in certain proportions with atmospheric air the vapor becomes highly explosive, and if confined in glass bottles and exposed to the heat of a summer day, it will burst the bottles It should be kept and transported in strong hermetically sealed vessels, and never be exposed to temperatures above fifty or sixty degrees Far

A NEW EXPLOSIVE—One of the most recent combinations for the manufacture of explosives, is the preparation of lignino, with sulphuric and nitric acids The woody fibre is first chopped up then freed from sap and mineral salts, by boiling with caustic soda or potash, and afterwards beaten into pulp, washed in water, and strained It is then ready for treating with the acids, in which it is placed for twenty four hours, and then washed with water, and restripped A second and third quantity of the pulp is treated in the same manner as the first, and the whole is then beaten together, washed, strained and dried In fact, its manufacture is very similar to the preparation of gun cotton

THE "ERIE" CONCERT—The concert of the Erie Musical Association, it will be remembered, comes off next Wednesday evening at the Parshall Opera house The indications are that Titusville will tender to her Erie neighbors a generous reception The Erie papers have always spoken in glowing terms of the concerts of the association We quote from the Erie Gazette

The long-expected concert of the Union Musical Association took place Wednesday evening of last week with a success which fully justified our confident anticipations Farrar Hall was filled in every part by a brilliant and appreciative audience and hundreds who applied for reserved seats on the last day could not obtain them, because all had been taken The programme, which was quite full, was lengthened by repeated encores, to which the singers, in solo or chorus, were obliged to respond But the entertainment was so well kept up that the interest of the audience never flagged a moment * * * We never saw a more delighted audience

AN instance showing the importance of recording deeds within six months from the time of their execution, has just occurred in Delaware county, this state Property was purchased by one brother from another, and the money paid in monthly installments In the meantime the seller failed, and the deed of the purchaser not being on record, the same property has been seized by the sheriff, and the probabilities now are that the rightful owner will lose it

NOW is the time to buy seasonable goods at R T Hazard's closing out sale

For the Herald

THE OLD YEAR

BY J T DINSFORD

Let the feet lightly press
On the floor softly tread,
As the hour draweth near,
When the Year lieth dead

Gather round our old friend,
As he passeth away
Let us hear, as he speaks,
The last words he shall say

Of high hopes that were ours
When in days he was young
Which [illegible] bright as fair flowers,
To our hearts so fast clung

Which did beat in our breasts
With a prospect so grand
That it seemed that they ne'er
Would be swept, as the sand,

By the waves, rolling up,
Is swept off from the shore
That they ne'er would be lost
In the sea of "Nevermore"

Idle dreams he calls all,
As they flit through the mind
The bright pictures, he left
Lying scattered behind

As are leaves by the wind,
Scattered o'er the cold ground,
As, so red, yet so still
In their death they are found

He doth speak of the plans
That we formed at his birth—
Of the schemes that were bound
To the realm of the earth

Of the towers we built,
And the castles so high
"All were [illegible]," he doth say
And sadly doth sigh

He now talks of the friends
That were here when he came,
That grim Death, for his own,
From our circle did claim

That they started with him
With a prospect of life
Just as fair as was ours,
In the world's fiercest strife

But they left ere his close,
For the grave and its shade
[illegible] the [illegible] and dies,
When the summer doth fade

That his brother may come
And we [illegible] pass away
[illegible] like him doth grow
And his locks are as grey

And a list of the vows
That we made he doth speak,
As more still he doth [illegible]
And his voice groweth weak

[illegible] we promised our souls
That we'd live more for Truth
[illegible] more fair,
In the [illegible] of his youth

"They were uttered in vain!
[illegible]
As he turns in his [illegible]
And the old Year doth die

Wrap him up in his shroud,
Lay him away to his rest
[illegible] words that he spoke
On our minds be impressed

SOLDIERS ORPHANS S[illegible] of Jan 1, 1871

Lectures and Lecturers.

The lecture system, which first sprouted on New England soil, still flourishes there, in its original vigor Boston has a hundred orators, each of the New England States has one or several colleges, the ranks of the professions are full of men of original thought, literary culture and readiness as public speakers It is noteworthy how practical the questions are that New England lecturers discuss They have two hobbies, one is "Reform," and the other is "Culture" Phillips is blowing the trumpet of the rights of labor it is always "rights" with the Yankee, even Mrs Vanderhoot is lecturing on "the Rights and Wrongs of Children" Butler's last effort was on the Rights and Wrongs of Fishermen No town so small, no community so poor in New England but she must have a lecture course Small farmers and humble operatives and mechanics may get but a scanty income from a grudging soil and irregular work, but they will take the paper, and attend lectures These are indispensable They are bound to know as much, and to have a reason for their opinion, and an opinion about everything, in church or state, if they have to go without some of the luxuries of dress or furniture In taking a survey of the lecture field this winter, we find many who are to visit Titusville, who are now filling engagements in the eastern states, as well as New York and Pennsylvania John B Gough has been indisposed lately and has been obliged to cancel, or postpone, several lecture engagements he is resting at home near Worcester for a few days This week E P Whipple lectures in New York and Pennsylvania, Mark Twain in Indiana and Ohio Frederick Douglass in Michigan and Illinois Hon William Parsons starts on a western tour beginning at Albany James Parsons is at Utica and other central New York cities, Colonel Higginson is in Maine, Rev W H H Murray is in New Hampshire and Massachusetts towns, "Carleton" begins a long western tour, Josh Billings "milks Maine" as he expresses it, George A Monder is at New Boston, New Hampshire, Miss Fanny R Edmunds opens a western tour at Schenectady, New York Elias Nason is at Millbury and other Maine towns, Lucy Stone at Rochester, N H, Major Dane at Warren, Mansfield and Nashua Rev I E Hale at Concord, N H, General Hawley at Great Falls, N H, and Quincy, Mass, Mrs Benton at Charlestown, Mrs Livermore in Central Pennsylvania, Prof [illegible] Brown at Portsmouth, N H, the Oateys at Cambridge, New York, George Vandenhoff at Plantsville, Connecticut, Colonel C D Wright at Fisherville, N H, and Nasby begins a second New England tour

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH—The Rev R A Browne of the United Presbyterian Church of Mercer, is engaged in the work of establishing a society of that denomination in Titusville A correspondent of the United Presbyterian paper at Pittsburgh, referring to this matter says,

The U P Church was among the first to organize in the oil regions, but, instead of concentrating her efforts in business centers, has too long followed the mistaken policy of locating congregations in out-of-the-way places, where there was but little prospect of building up self sustaining churches This has been substantially true of our efforts in the region of Titusville, hence other churches, adopting a different policy, have gone in and now occupy the field, but, notwithstanding our past neglect of this field, present prospects are quite encouraging

A movement is about being made, looking to the erection of a church building, and the well known liberality of the citizens of Titusville and vicinity promises to make this movement a success Among the encouraging features to organize a church in the above place, is the fact that we have been able to secure the labors of Dr Browne, who has been laboring faithfully in Titusville and Kerr Ridge for several weeks, and who, as a preacher and Christian gentleman, already occupies a very high place in the esteem of those to whom he ministers, and indeed of the whole community We feel assured that we have the right man in the right place, and hope that the good brethren of Titusville and vicinity may be able to retain him permanently as pastor

Mr Browne, we learn, was chaplain of the 100th Pennsylvania Volunteers during the war, and served during the entire period of their enlistment Of late he has been pastor of the U P Church of Mercer We learn that Mr George K Anderson, with his accustomed liberality, has consented to furnish grounds for the erection of a church for the society in Titusville

NEW USE FOR NITRO GLYCERINE—A safe was blown open the other night by nitro glycerine, in Grand street New York, and $2,000 was abstracted The professional burglars wrenched off the handle of the safe, and introduced the oily explosive through the aperture

SOLDIERS ORPHANS—ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The following list of officers were chosen and elected for the T S O S company, on Thursday last Major, William L Minor Captain, Micheal L Subt, First Lieutenant, William O Fulton Second Lieutenant, John E Womer, First Sergeant, William H Malarkey, Second Sergeant, Samuel M Farrell, Third Sergeant, Albert K Howard, Fourth Sergeant, Monroe L Pike, Fifth Sergeant, Johnson T Hegerty Color Sergeant, Orlando S Berlin First Corporal, Charles L Thompson, Second Corporal, Theodore F. Pratt Third Corporal, Willis A Price, Fourth Corporal, Aaron Leary Fifth Corporal Robt Dunnings, Sixth Corporal, Harlan L Brown, Seventh Corporal Simeon R Cogar, Eighth Corporal, John W neel, Tenor Drummers, Ralph A Crum, Gilbert L Fredonburg, Clemance L Berlin, John Reynolds Bass Drummers, David L Henderson Fifers, John A Thompson George C B Malarkey, Charles W George, Jerome S Martin The officers are chosen as follows Mr Spicer, the Captain commanding, to whom we are indebted for our military organization, first chooses the candidates, and then the boys give their votes for or against them Those officers serve a term of six months, unless their conduct be so as to cause them to be reduced to the ranks again When a boy is once elected to the rank of Captain, he does not take his place in line again, unless his conduct be so bad that it cannot be otherwise, but serves one term as Senior Captain, and then advances step by step toward Generalship The office of Major is the highest that has been reached yet At present there are ninety eight members in the company, and we are constantly receiving "new recruits" and I trust we will soon number as large as any other school of this kind in the state The uniform of our company has recently been changed from a blue to a gray one, and I think that we look very well in our new uniform This uniform is now made entirely in Crawford county, being made at the factories at Meadville It is cut by our superintendent of boys, Mr H P Spicer, and it is then made up in the "Sewing room," by the girls, with the help of some women, who are hired to give them lessons in sewing The boots and shoes are made in the shoe shop by the boys with the help of one man who is there to oversee the work This is a good thing for the boys who work there, as they will have a good chance to learn that trade, and when they leave the school they will have a trade to work at, which boys at their age seldom have

EVERY SATURDAY—There never was a brighter, more attractive, more entertaining or instructive journal of choice reading than the old Every Saturday, containing the cream of all the foreign periodicals and we were sorry to see it transformed into a pictorial As a pictorial it deserved well for its lavish expense and enterprise, but the Tammany business gave Harper's Weekly an advantage which grew more and more preponderating every week, and then Harper's stories were more attractive and its editorials more pat and up to the times Every Saturday has returned with the new year to its old shape, in which it is without a superior It will regain all that it has lost We give the table of contents, than which nothing could be more appetizing to the literary palate "A Persian Passion Play" by Mathew Arnold The Cornhill Magazine "The Iron Cage" All the Year Round, "The Critical Spirit," by Charles Kingsley Pleasure "The Two Trombones" London Society, "Soda" Chambers's Journal "The Signor Jonn" All the Year Round "Under Ground" The Silver Shaft, "Foreign Notes Our Exchanges "The Christmas Rose" Chambers Journal New Series Vol I, No 1, price 10 cents Osgood & Co, Boston. HERRING'S SAFES IN CHICAGO—We have heretofore expressed our surprise that any safes should have withstood the universal destruction in the Great Chicago Conflagration Certificates from the collector of the port, Major of the city, the Corporation Counsel and the County Treasurer, showing the manner in which Herring's Safes passed through the unexampled test are published So far one hundred and twenty [illegible] firms bear like testimony The business community most assuredly have reason for congratulation that such evidence is furnished as to the fire-proof qualities of their safe—N Y Evening Post

A FACT WORTH KNOWING—Many confectioners of our day use poisonous coloring matter in the composition of their candies, some of which, for instance, carmine, chromo yellow gambogo Prussian blue, and many others are injurious They also adulterate their candies with Terra Alba, Glucus and other substances, all of which are highly deleterious to the health This is all done for the purpose of supplying the trade with a cheap article of candies These candies look as well to the eye as the genuine, and the retailer asks the highest price for them

It is for your interest not to allow your children to buy adulterated compounds Do not be any longer humbugged with vile stuff but come to our store and get a perfectly pure and reliable article manufactured by us, and for the purity and genuineness we can vouch Remember this fact, we keep nothing but pure goods

THE ORGAN-BLOWER.

BY OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES

Devoutest of my Sunday friends,
The patient Organ-blower bends;
I see his figure sink and rise,
(Forgive me, Heaven, my wandering eyes!)
A moment lost, the next half seen,
His head above the scanty screen,
Still measuring out his deep salaam
Through quavering hymns and panting psalms.

No priest that prays in gilded stole,
To save a rich man's mortgaged soul,
No sister, fresh from holy vows,—
So humbly stoops, so meekly bows,
His large obeisance puts to shame
The proudest genuflecting dame,
Whose Easter bonnet low descends
With all the grace devotion lends.

O, brother with the supple spine,
How much we owe those bows of thine
Without thy arm to lend the breeze,
How vain the finger on the keys!
Though all unmatched the player's skill
Those thousand throats were dumb and still
Another's art may shape the tone,
The breath that fills it is thine own.

Six days the silent Memnon waits
Behind his temple's folded gates,
But when the seventh day's sunshine falls
Through rainbowed windows on the walls,
He breathes, he sings, he shouts, he fills
The quivering air with rapturous thrills
The roof resounds, the pillars shake,
And all the slumbering echoes wake!

The preacher from the Bible-text
With weary words my soul has vexed
(Some stranger, fumbling far astray
To find the lessons for the day,)
He tells us truth too plainly true,
And reads the service all askew,—
Why—why the—mischief—can't he look
Beforehand in the service-book?

But thou, with decent mien and face,
Art always ready in thy place,
Thy strenuous blast, whate'er the tune,
As steadily as the strong monsoon,
Thy only dread a leathery creak,
Or small residual extra squeak,
To send along the shadowy aisles
A sunlit wave of dimpled smiles.

Not all the preaching, O my friend,
Comes from the church's pulpit end!
Not all that bend the knee and bow
Yield service half so true as thou!
One single task performed aright,
With slender skill, but all thy might,
Where honest labor does its best,
And leaves the player all the rest.

This many-diapasoned maze,
Through which the breath of being strays,
Whose music makes our earth divine,
Has work for mortal hands like mine.
My duty lies before me. Lo,
The lever there! Take hold and blow!
And He whose hand is on the keys
Will play the tune as He shall please!

Parisian Dining

A PARISIAN CELEBRITY—THE STORY OF DINOCHAU, THE RESTAURATEUR

From the Paris Correspondence of the London Daily News.

A Parisian celebrity, very celebrated, yet scarcely known to those not thoroughly acquainted with the arcana of Paris life, has just died at the Lariboisiere hospital I speak of Dinochau, the landlord of a common-looking wine shop at the corner of the Rue Navarin, in the Quartier Breda On the first floor of this house was a table d'hote at thirty sous, much frequented by actors, singers, artists, and journalists The dinner, which Dinochau's mother used to cook and put upon the table, while he attended to the wine department, was, when markets were well supplied and provisions cheap, far better than the five-franc banquet of the expensive hotels In years gone by I have taken English friends, some of whom will read this, to dine at Dinochau's It was one of the sights of Paris, which no foreigner would have found out without a guide. The manners of the place were free and easy. In hot weather I have seen the men throw off their coats and dine with shirt sleeves displayed. Ladies were admitted; and as no references were required, they were naturally not of a class to be received at Almack's. It was not at all unusual for claret and champagne to be put on the table after dinner, on the pretext that it was a fete day of one of the company, who took the liberty of treating everybody. The evening seldom finished without songs; and I have heard at Dinochau's a first tenor of the opera At Dinochau's I have seen Gustave Dore, before he had made his reputation as a painter, playing the violin with the skill of a Paganini, his fair neighbors affectionately styling him "Mon petit Gustave" Nadar, of balloon and photographic celebrity, was a frequenter of Dinochau's Charles Monselet, the wit and gourmand, and now the moralist, was a constant attendant at Dinochau's, and on account of his enormous appetite, volunteered to pay double for the double portions which he required. Etienne Carjat, a painter of genius, who is now making a fortune by the more certain though less brilliant career of a photographer, used in those days to sketch caricatures of the frequenters of the table d'hote Total strangers of the feminine sex would say to him, "Oh, mon cher Carjat, fais moi ma charge." He often complied, and the walls of the dining-room in the Rue Navarin are hung with his productions. One of the oldest and best is a caricature of Dinochau himself with a corkscrew in a bottle, addressing himself to a party hesitating whether they could make up money enough to pay for it, and saying, "Well, is the cork to come out?" Dinochau freely gave credit to old customers, and times have been lately so hard that many abused the privilege. The main part of the fortune he leaves consists of $5 000 of book debts for unpaid dinners of thirty sous.

SUCKER-ROD JOINTS.

Explanation of Cuts.

No. 1--Represents the Joint Complete. No. 2--A longitudinal sectional view of a full Joint, showing the position of the wood in the socket when wedged, a glance at which must convince the most skeptical of the superiority of this Joint over any other. No. 3--A view of the end of the Rod, when turned ready for the socket to be driven on, with the slot for the wedge and the wedge about being entered. No. 4--Represents the end of the wood, and shows the proper way to saw the slot (across the grain) into which the wedge is to be driven.

The above description and accompanying cuts will enable any skilled person to make connection at the wells in a much shorter time than can be done with any other Rod, all the tools required being a small fine saw, one of our hollow augurs and a few of our wedges. The wedges can be procured at any hardware store gratis.

ROSADALIS

THE INGREDIENTS THAT COMPOSE ROSADALIS are published on every package, therefore it is not a secret preparation, consequently

PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE IT.

It is a certain cure for Scrofula, Syphilis in all its forms, Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Liver Complaint and all diseases of the Blood.

ONE BOTTLE OF ROSADALIS will do more good than ten bottles of the Syrups of Sarsaparilla.

THE UNDERSIGNED PHYSICIANS have used Rosadalis in their practice for the past three years and freely endorse it as a reliable Alterative and Blood Purifier.
